FASHION EDITORIAL (LIVE): Trend Prediction

CATEGORY DEFINITION

This year artists are tasked with predicting the next big makeup trend for the upcoming season, inspired by the bold, cutting-edge looks we see on the runway. Your challenge is to create a wearable high-fashion makeup look that reflects your vision of the future of beauty—an interpretation of what you believe will dominate the runways in the upcoming seasons. Fashion trends evolve constantly, and makeup is no exception. Whether it's a revival of an iconic runway look with a modern twist or an entirely new concept that you foresee gaining momentum, your makeup should embody the essence of innovation and forward-thinking beauty.

“What really is fashion editorial?”

When you think Fashion editorial makeup think graphic eyeliners, bold lip colours, and unconventional blush application. It usually involves one key element like a bold eye or lip. It will sometimes involve some Avant garde techniques or elements but is not to be confused with avant garde makeup. Avant garde makeup is art inspired where as editorial is more fashion based and can generally be adapted into a wearable look for the consumer.

Face2Face Makeup Awards – Artist Tips 2025

Please read through all the rules and regulations carefully. This includes both the general rules and regulations for the Face2Face Makeup Awards and the specific rules for the category in which you are entering.

Model Selection

Whether you're competing in the photographic or live categories, choosing the right model is crucial. When selecting a model, ensure they align with the look you aim to create. For instance, if you're planning a cut-crease makeup, a model with a large open eye space would be ideal. Judges will assess whether your makeup suits your model's face, so it's important to select a suitable model. This is a competition, so your choice of model should enhance your work and facilitate an easy application. Professional freelance models can easily be found on platforms like Facebook and Instagram.

Hair/Styling/Costumes

While you are not judged directly on your model's clothing or hairstyle, it's essential that these elements complement your makeup and create a cohesive look. Don't hesitate to go all out, especially in the creative category, where the overall concept often extends across hair, face, body, and styling. While we encourage your styling and costumes to be creative and compliment your overall look, please keep outfits appropriate for a public environment.

Mood Board

Your mood board is a key tool for helping judges understand your concept and should never be overlooked. It demonstrates how well you've grasped the theme and concept, and how you've translated it into your makeup design. Judges will also be looking for consistency between the look you present on the day and the concept in your mood board.

Punctuality

Arriving on time is imperative. If you arrive late after the competition has started, you will not be granted additional time to complete your look. Be sure to allow ample time for parking, badge registration, and model check-in. The competition floor opens 30 minutes before each category begins. During this time, artists are permitted to set up their kits and finalize any last-minute preparations.

Hairstyling

Hair styling must be completed before the competition begins. If your model will be wearing contact lenses, you may apply them prior to the competition if preferred.

Styling/Clothing

Judging will commence immediately once the allotted time is up. Models will not be allowed to leave the competition area to change outfits. We understand that certain elaborate costumes in the creative category may need to be applied after makeup is completed, but this must be done on the competition floor within the allotted time. Models in all other categories must be dressed before the competition starts. Adding hair accessories, jewellery, and other finishing touches during the competition time is acceptable. If you're unsure about anything, please feel free to ask.

What Judges Are Looking For

When judging your makeup look, the focus will be on the details. Judges will evaluate blending, product placement, and whether your lines are clean and precise. Have you chosen colours that complement each other and suit your model's skin tone? We'll also be reviewing the accuracy of lash application, and whether the lips and eye makeup are symmetrical. We strongly recommend practicing your look before the competition. This will help with time management and allow you to identify any areas that may need refinement.

Timing

If you find yourself running out of time during the competition, prioritize the most important elements of your look. For example, if your lips and lashes still need to be applied, but the lips are a focal point of your design, focus on them first rather than using up time on the lashes. Make the most of your time!
